NOTES AND COMMENTS

Prorogation of the Imperial Parliament—Legislation—The "New Lichts."

The Triple Alliance—Mrs. Maybrick—Efforts Made on her Behalf.

There are a good many people who are beginning to think that the House of Commons cannot be shut up too soon for the credit of the government, and it is of course among the friends of the government, who are anxious that its dignity should be sustained, that this opinion chiefly prevails. The enemies of the government would cheerfully look on while it even committed suicide. The concessions demanded by the Liberal Unionists, upon whose support the government depends for existence, strain the patience of the older conservatives to the uttermost; but they must either yield or resign, and so they follow their leaders whenever implicit obedience is demanded, but break away from them whenever the measure before the house is not strictly a government one. The position of the conservative leaders therefore is neither pleasant nor easy, and the abandonment of the tithe bill last week and the Irish Sunday closing bill this week has betrayed their weakness very disagreeably for them. It is as difficult to serve two masters nowadays as it was nineteen centuries ago. The tithe bill we explained fully last week. The Irish Sunday closing bill was not a government measure like the former; but nevertheless Mr. Balfour, chief secretary of Ireland, had approved of it, and Mr. W. H. Smith, the leader of the house, had publicly blessed it and promised it the needful time, so that conservative support was practically guaranteed. The bill was passed originally in 1878, but the five largest towns in Ireland were excluded from its operation, and it was to expire in four years. Every chief secretary since then has approved of it, and last year a committee, appointed to inquire into the working of the Act, reported in favor of its being made permanent and extended to the five largest towns. However, the bill has had to be abandoned and this second fiasco will not improve the credit of the government.

Only about 200 members remain in town, and of these so many absent themselves from the House, except when an important division is expected, that it has once or twice proved difficult to form a quorum. A fresh batch departs every few days as the business that specially detained them is accomplished, and if the House is not soon prorogued it seems in a fair way to efface itself. However, there have been Saturday sittings, and the 12 o'clock closing rule has been suspended on Tuesdays and Fridays, and prorogation may be confidently expected to take place before the end of the month.

The question of an English alliance with central powers is just now one of great interest to ourselves and to the whole of Europe. For the moment England occupies something akin to her old position in European affairs, and so long as it remains uncertain whether she will take sides in the anticipated struggle on the continent, or what side she will take, she is wooed by all and flouted by none, and maintains a pleasing pre-eminence in virtue of her discreet attitude. It is a situation in which silence may be golden. But Mr. Labouchere would like to be taken into the confidence of the government, and he displayed some irritation in the House a few days ago because he could get no definite or authoritative assurance on the subject; nothing, that is to say, beyond the official statement that "Her Majesty's government were under no engagement to employ the military or naval forces, except such as are known to the House." There was a sharp tussle between him and the foreign secretary; and Mr. Labouchere's later intimation that he would not wait longer in town, but would go off for his holidays, was received with loud cheers by the ministerial benches. The little band of extreme and aggressive Radicals who, with Mr. Labouchere for a leader, carry on the political war as free-booters, and never relax their efforts to harass the flank of the enemy, are described as the "new lichts" of the Gladstone party. They go in openly for all obstructive tactics, and have quite thrown off the yoke of the orthodox Gladstone section of the Liberal party. The question asked by Mr. Labouchere with reference to England's relations with foreign powers was one that could only be answered diplomatically, for full information on the point would have been more intensely interesting and far more serviceable to Russia and Germany than to Mr. Labouchere, and the peace of Europe might even have been jeopardized by it. It is not always wise to show one's hand to possible opponents. A little uncertainty and suspense as to our future course of action may have a restraining influence upon them and lead to results beneficial to ourselves. But in a country like England, which has not a rigidly defined and brand new constitution, like that of the United States, based, so to speak, on the latest modern improvements, but where, on the contrary, theory and practice are frequently at variance, where the outward forms of monarchy are retained while the spirit of the government is to all intents and purposes republican, it is very different for ministers to preserve that attitude of reserve which, as far as our foreign relations are concerned, must frequently be necessary to sustain our position and dignity in the commonwealth of nations. Everything which threatens, in the remotest degree, to exclude the people from a full knowledge of the inner workings of the government is viewed with jealous suspicion by those who constitute themselves the watchdogs of the people. In a great democracy like America, where all authority springs directly from the people, and where a written constitution framed by themselves, guard both individual and national liberty, far greater powers are delegated to the governing bodies. It is provided that the senate goes into executive session, when, that is to say, treaties and alliances with foreign powers are considered, the galleries may be cleared and the doors closed; and the obligation of secrecy may be enforced by the penalty of expulsion to which a senator exposes himself who divulges the proceedings.

The peace of Europe is at present preserved by the close alliance of the three great central powers, Germany, Austria and Italy. Were England to join the Triple Alliance Russia and France would hesitate to take up arms. Germany is consequently very conciliating in her attitude towards England. German colonial enterprise in Africa, which has developed rapidly during the last few years, has brought her into frequent collision with Great Britain, and there has been considerable irritation on both sides owing to various misunderstandings. But the watchword in Germany at present is to let colonial grievances rest, and that "friendship with England is worth more than anything which could be obtained on the upper Nile," is the language of the official papers. Russia is the power that Germany and Austria view with the greatest apprehension, and the anticipated struggle will be before everything else one between Slav and Teuton for race predominance. Minor hopes and passions will no doubt flame out at the same moment and seek gratification. France, for instance, has her lost provinces to regain and the stain of past humiliation and defeat to wipe out; England has her interests in Egypt and India to guard; Italy has to maintain intact her recently consolidated kingdom; Austria has her eye upon one or two nice bits of territory that would satisfactorily connect her more scattered possessions, and so the conflagration, when once it bursts forth, threatens to become general throughout Europe. But the fiercest conflict will certainly be between Slav and German and will rage along the road from Russia to Constantinople. Russia loses no opportunity of quietly pushing her influence in the Balkan States that separate her from the object she has steadily in view, namely, the acquisition of a port on the Mediterranean. It was Russian influence that banished Prince Alexander of Battenberg from the Bulgarian throne, and Russian agents have been busy in Servia where the regent is entirely submissive to them. The close alliance of the great Central European powers is the best guarantee of peace; and they, on one side, and France and Russia on the other, are watching attentively the attitude of England.

The excitement caused by the conviction of Mrs. Maybrick has been unprecedented. Her enthusiastic supporters have held meeting after meeting throughout the country and fresh batches of memorials and communications have been received each day at the home office. They have been delivered in thousands. Petitions weighing over 2 lbs cannot be sent by post and consequently the monster petition from Manchester, which was an exceedingly bulky document, was consigned by railway to Mr. Balfour at the House of Commons. Mrs. Maybrick is young and beautiful, and also an heiress, and her condition naturally excites much sympathy. She is almost as picturesque a figure as Mary Stuart, and not more guilty than that favorite heroine of romance if we are to believe recent historians. Therefore we need not be astonished that a wave of horror should sweep over the country at the thought of such a creature being condemned to a horrible death. The multitude is apt to be swayed by emotion, and sentiment easily ignores facts. It is announced this morning that the home secretary has commuted the sentence to one of penal servitude for life, which practically means twenty years, if her conduct in prison is good. It is the prerogative of the crown to exercise mercy, but Mr. Matthews is not satisfied to make that the only ground for his action. He is a typical representative of the government and is easily drawn into an illogical position. He is quite satisfied, after carefully examining the evidence, that Mrs. Maybrick administered poison to her husband with the intent to kill, but he is not quite satisfied that death actually resulted from the amount administered, and it is that doubt which enables him conscientiously to commute the sentence. Of course if she is innocent she ought to be set free, and if guilty she deserves to suffer the extreme penalty of the law. Mercy is the only rational plea for a remission of the sentence and probably no one would quarrel with Mr. Matthews if, on that ground alone, he commuted the punishment. But Mr. Matthews' unnecessarily elaborate statement is open to much criticism, and is in itself a ground for further petitions.

SEALER ARRIVES.

Good Catch of the W. P. Sayward—Buoy Found Adrift.

The sealing schooner W. P. Sayward, Capt. Louis Olsem, arrived in the harbor at ten o'clock this morning with 1,600 seal skins on board, she having got over 2,600 for the season. The vessel was in Behring Sea but saw nothing of the United States revenue cutters, and was consequently not molested. On the first of September she sighted the schooner Lilly L., which at that time had a fair catch, and intended soon to leave for port.

Off Queen Charlotte Islands a large red cone-shaped iron buoy was picked up adrift. It has "6" painted on it in white, and from all appearances it was formerly moored at some river or bar channel, presumably the Columbia River, as it is very similar in shape and style to those at that place.

The owners, Messrs. Lang & Lundberg, are pleased over the good catch of their vessel, which will be a paying one, as the price of sealskins is pretty high.

Storms and Loss of Life on the Atlantic Coast—A Destructive Cloud Burst.

By Postal Telegraph.]

New York, Sept. 13—Le Courier des Etats Unis writing editorially on the Paris exposition says this morning:—"Strangers in Paris cannot but observe with surprise what a small place in the life of our country is given to politics. Political discussions which are so noisy in journals and sometimes in the Chambers. In vain journals raise the cry but people recognize it with a shrug of the shoulder and pass on to their business or their pleasure. France is now in a full electoral period, but strangers can see how little the surface is agitated. There can be no doubt how France will vote, and while the world may be sure it will vote peacefully, future governors of Europe who have been guests of France during the exposition can but mark the same."

New York, Sept. 13.—The fifty American workmen who have been making a tour in Europe for six weeks arrived today on the City of Rome. All returned more contented with their lot because of the comparisons made on the other side. Without an exception they are of the opinion that the American workmen is better paid, better housed, better fed, better clothed and generally better off than the European fellow.

CARDINAL MANNING

Acts as a Mediator Between Employers and Employees.

London, Sept. 13.—The conference between Cardinal Manning and the dock directors was held yesterday. The directors informed the cardinal that they were unwilling to agree to a compromise as proposed by him, and that the terms which the dock companies have already conceded go into effect on November 1st instead of January 1st, provided work is resumed at once. The cardinal was successful, however, in persuading the directors to again consider their proposal and to postpone their decision for the present.

After his conference with the directors of the dock companies, Cardinal Manning informed Burns and Tillett that although the dock directors adhered to their point of putting an increase into operation on January 1st, they were still open to negotiations looking to a compromise. Cardinal Manning said he was authorized to say to the strikers that if they had any other terms to suggest it was necessary for them to first agree amongst themselves. The directors had nothing from the men at present which they considered sufficient to warrant their deliberations and were firm in their resolve to make no overtures to them. If the leaders would formulate final proposals they would be presented through Cardinal Manning, and the directors would then consider them.

A CLOUD BURST

Does Great Damage at Coney Island and Vicinity.

Coney Island, Sept. 13.—Shortly after midnight a cloud burst directly over the island, the water coming down in tremendous quantities and doing considerable damage at Brighton Beach, Manhattan Beach and to the Oriental Hotel, Sheepshead Bay. The plains are greatly swollen by the cloud burst. There is a heavy tide. It flowed over and completely surrounded many houses with from three to five feet of water.

THE STRIKE OVER.

Cardinal Manning's Proposition Accepted—Work Resumed.

London, Sept. 13—The directors of the dock companies and strikers have accepted Cardinal Manning's proposed compromise that the payment of the increase of wages to commence on November 4th. Work will be resumed at once.

WINNIPEG LABORERS

Not Permitted to Enter the States Unless They Become Americans.

It has been a custom with some of our large farmers, says the Pembina Express, when in need of help, to take a run down to Winnipeg to engage men. During the last ten days an employment office in Winnipeg, run by one J. Allen, has been hiring men and sending them across the line via the N. P. & M. and the M. & M. roads. Over a half dozen have been stopped the last few days by the customs authorities at this port, and those not willing to become American subjects were sent back to Winnipeg. To show how and why these transactions are carried on we will give two cases that came to light Thursday and Friday of last week: One day two apparently good workingmen were taken into the customs office and examined. They produced a written contract signed by the above-named employment agent, to work on a certain farm a short distance from here, for two months, at $1 per day. The next day two others appeared, with contracts in pocket, to be employed in same vicinity, the same length of time, at $1.75 per day. The two former bolted their contracts and hired out to Mr. G. A. Booker, after the customs law had been complied with, at double the contract figures. From the stories told by the men and various wages agreed to be paid them, it is probable the Winnipeg office is doing some snide work and knowingly violates the laws of the United States.

LABOR CONGRESS.

Resolutions Passed Approving of Henry George's Taxation Scheme.

The Dominion Labor Congress, at its meeting at Montreal last week, passed a resolution approving of the eight-hour movement, Henry George's land taxation scheme, the appointment of a compulsory board of arbitration for settling all disputes between laborers and employers and asking the government to pass a law compelling cigar dealers to destroy their empty boxes. Day labor for bakers was encouraged, and female type setters, it was declared, should receive the same pay as men, or be prevented from working. Ottawa was agreed upon as the next place of meeting.

The Canals of Mars.

Through the agency of the Lick telescope the surface of the planet Mars has been mapped out with additional clearness. The canals, which can be very plainly seen, lie in the torrid and warmer portions of the temperate zone, and extend from the Northern to the Southern Ocean. They are, in general, 2,000 or 3,000 miles in length and over thirty miles in breadth. They are generally arranged in pairs 200 or 300 miles apart, and so exactly parallel that usually no deviation can be detected. They cut up the continent surface so that there is no spot more than 400 miles distant from one of these markings. There is still much surmise as to whether these assumed canals are artificial or natural. It is argued that they cannot be artificial, because of their great width, but, on the other hand, it is equally inconceivable that the forces of nature could, by the laws of accident, have constructed such an intricate system of markings and observed an equal width in every case. The late Professor Proctor suggested that the canals are the diffracted images of rivers, produced by mists which hang over the river beds.

A FAT BILLET.

Montreal, Sept 13.—It is rumored in railway circles that the position of assistant-general manager of the C.P.R., rendered vacant by the promotion of J. G. Shaughnessy to assistant-president, will be given to either J. A. McVinner or C. N. Spencer, both of whom are now divisional superintendents.

MR. GOODERHAM DEAD.

The Well-Known Toronto Philanthropist Passes Away.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Toronto, Sept 13.—Mr. Gooderham, the well-known philanthropist and temperance advocate, died suddenly last evening of heart disease at the home for fallen women, where he was conducting religious services. He was 65 years of age. He is worth at least $1,000,000, and his gifts to public institutions have always been of a most munificent character.

A FOUL OUTRAGE

Committed by Five Drunken Brutes—Easily Purchased Silence.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Winnipeg, Sept. 13—A foul criminal outrage was committed near Morden yesterday. Five drunken Mennonites brutally outraged a young Mennonite girl of 18 years. After accomplishing their foul purpose the dastards released the girl in an almost nude condition. The matter was hushed up on the payment of one dollar each to the chief of the Mennonite village.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION

On the Lakes—One Steamer Sunk—Two Lives Lost.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Brockville, Ont, Sept. 13.—The steamer Rothsay of Kingston and the tug Maria of Ogdensburg, N. Y., collided between here and the mainland last night. The Rothsay has an excursion party on board. She was beached. The Maria sank immediately. Samuel Jordan, of Waddington, and William Sullivan, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., both of the tug's crew, were the only persons drowned in the collision. The tug was valued at $10,000.

AMITIES VS. KAMLOOPS.

Disgraceful Features of a Ball Game—Sport and Hoodlumism.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Vancouver, Sept. 13—The game for the British Columbia championship, Amities vs. Kamloops, started in well for the former. Reid, who occupied the box for Kamloops, was batted often. No ball that he could pitch seemed to deceive the Amities, so he exchanged positions with March, who fared better but was no terror. Kamloops on the other hand was completely at the mercy of Parrott. Seeing their predicament they determined to win by any means and at once commenced to play a ruffianly game, halloing at the top of their voices, calling vile names, and running up and down the base lines and collecting two and three at a time around the first and third and home bases. All this hoodlum carrying on unnerved the Amities, and a number of errors followed, allowing Kamloops to score four runs. The Amities pulled themselves together and played fine ball, making clear stops and brilliant catches. While at the bat in the eighth innings they struck a lucky streak of batting and filled the bases with Jackson at the bat, who had previously batted a long fly into right field. March was completely at sea and pitched wild, and to make matters worse, a foul tip disabled catcher Watson.

After a delay of a few minutes March took the ball, walked to the center of the diamond, and the base runners who had been sitting on the bases stood up and prepared to run. Parrott was at first moved off about ten feet; March immediately drove the ball to first; Parrott let it go and it did go away beyond the grand stand. Parrott started to make the circuit of the bases, chasing in Duck and Borthwick. March went after the ball, but Schoonmaker was ahead of him, so he stood near first base looking wild. After gaining possession of the ball he stood on first and raising his arm and voice demanded that the umpire call Parrott out. The umpire could not see why so and started in to read the guide. After a delay of twenty minutes, during which time he was bullied and explained into him that Parrott was out. Previous to giving the decision he did not know whether March stood in his position or not. In the evening he knew all about it and must have had the supposed trick explained to him. The fact of the matter is March made a mistake by taking Parrott for first baseman, as he wore a Kamloops coat, but he bluffed the umpire and the club followed and his supporters backed him up strong. It is said that if the club had not won both first prizes the people who pay the salary would have to go down into their pockets. In fact they are now in the hole for a considerable amount, and had quite a time keeping the club together till after the tournament.

IS THIS BRIBERY?

The following is an extract from an article in this morning's Colonist, which bears all the marks of "Honest John's" indicting:

"If Lillooet be alive to her own interests, she will cast a solid vote for the government candidate and thereby insure her full shire of representation and of the good things going in the last session of the term."

If "the good things going" are not a direct offer of a bribe to the electors, pray what is it? Will the president of the Y. M. C. A. explain?

LILLOOET.

No! No! Don't vote for Mr. Saul, he is a rank oppositionist! This plaintive whoop from the Colonist reminds us of the cry which greeted Pilate. Crucify him! Crucify him! The spectacle of all of the forces of the government being brought to bear against Mr. Saul, with the "organ" crying "crucify him," because he is an oppositionist, is as curious as a phase of the passions which actuate men, as it is instructive of the deep solicitude with which the government regards the outcome of the pending struggle. We will say to the electors of Lillooet that the best guarantee of good government is equality of political forces. The House consists of twenty-seven members. This number pretty equally divided for and against the government and we shall have a better administration of affairs. This is an established principle in politics. Equalize the political forces and politicians become more circumspect. Even though the sympathies of Lillooet are with the government, they owe it to their own interests and those of the province at large that the hopeless opposition should be able to check the arrogance and the abuse of power which has distinguished the ruling powers for several years past.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN, CONGRESSMAN.

The newspapers, in their ironical moods, use the prefix of "Hon." to the name of John L. Sullivan. It is not unlikely that before another year passes away the newspapers will be compelled to address the champion pugilist thus, as a matter of fact. John L. Sullivan has announced himself a candidate for congress for the fourth Boston district, which is said to have a democratic majority of over 8,000. So much for being a prize fighter and a democrat. In this great and glorious country, in Canada as well as the United States, John L. Sullivan's eligibility for office is only qualified by his ability to procure votes. Nor is there anything extraordinary in men of the stamp of Sullivan playing the role of law givers, or, for that matter, higher functions. Romulus was a cattle thief, and, indeed, not a few of his successors were men of ignoble birth, men who were distinguished chiefly for their physical strength and their ferocity. Belisarius, who retook Italy and Africa from the Goths during the reign of Justinian, was of humble origin, and in his youth had served in the ranks of the Roman legions. Narses, also a successful soldier, was an eunuch, and of humble parentage. Napoleon was a plebian, and rated at his true worth was as brutal as any of our prize fighters. Indeed, the only thing which disqualifies Sullivan for congress is his mental status. Morally he is on par with quite a number of congressmen whom we could mention, for the balance of favor morally as between men who connive at the murder of negroes and their political opponents, and the bruiser is to the advantage of the latter. Let no man affect to sneer at Sullivan's eligibility for congress on the score of his profession and his brutality; his peers under an alias already are in congress. Sullivan is not guilty of murder. As to John's letter of acceptance, for we might as well call it that, it is not a snivle document. He says, he has always voted the democratic ticket. "Some may criticise his profession," he says, "but they don't know what they are talking about. My business has always been to encourage physical culture." He further declares that he has always "conducted his business on the square, and that a Sunday School teacher can say no more," while as to his fitness as a congressman, he undertakes to prove it, by saying that a man elected to congress is to look out for his constituents. "That will be his motto and living up to it will be his business." But the extraordinary features of Sullivan's candidature for congress, if we are to regard it in a serious light, are the political conditions which render his election possible. No pugilist, nor for that matter a patron of the prize ring, however remotely connected, would be tolerated for a moment as a candidate for any office above a constable by the republican party. It is true that since the war the republicans have lost some of their scrupulosity as to the moral character of their congressmen, but they never yet endorsed a prize fighter and a gambler. John Morrissy served a term in congress. Morrissy, regardless of his associations, had some of the instincts of an honest man and a gentleman. Fair play was pre-eminently one of Morrissy's characteristics, which is a good deal more than can be said of a good many of his colleagues. The Oregonian commenting on John's intention to quit the ring for politics, thus discusses his chances of election:

"In Boston or New York Sullivan, if sober enough to attend to his canvass, could be elected, and his election would not be a whit more disgraceful to the country than that of many democrats who occupy stolen seats in Congress today. John is a great, hulking, stupid brute, but he is not a murderer nor a thief. He is not a man of feeling; he doesn't know anything in particular except "fitin," but, since he feels obliged to quit his present business, to be a democratic congressman is the next logical step, in pursuit of those things that to him make life worth living. John's choice to be a congressman, since he can no longer be a prize fighter, was probably dictated by that love of languid comfort and indolent ease that prompted a democratic brother once to pause in his work on a very hot day and exclaim, "I'd like a nice easy job; I'd like to be a bishop." John would like to be a democratic congressman.

ONTARIO TEACHERS.

"To weed out incompetent teachers," says the Week, "and supply their places with educated men and women, not only thoroughly familiar with both languages, but trained in the best methods of instruction, will be a work of time and expense. The recommendations of the committee are eminently judicious and practical. Seeing that any salaries that can be offered are too small to tempt educated teachers from abroad into the districts, the necessity of establishing a special school for the training of French teachers in the English language and in professional methods is obvious." It does not seem to occur to the Week or any of the managers of the educational department in Ontario that the prime consideration for the ability to perform certain duties well is a commensurate compensation. Ability commands a good salary whatever the occupation. A cheap book-keeper is a poor book-keeper; a cheap mechanic is a person of indifferent skill. Real merit is always in demand, practically commanding its own price, and so it would appear that the graduates of the "special school" for the training of teachers will no more be attracted by small salaries than the "educated teachers" abroad. They will say, we are now fit to teach, and we must be paid accordingly. It is singular how governments will strain at gnats and swallow elephants. Millions for railways, public works, and all that sort of thing, but only a pittance for school teachers. Offer a decent wage and competent teachers will soon present themselves. A year in fact will suffice to supply these schools with competent teachers. Why should Canada be compelled to wait four or five years for competent teachers when they can be had in twelve months, and all for a simple increase of salary which the country is quite able to afford?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The printing of the last issue of the Manitoba Gazette in one language indicates that another step has been taken in the direction of discontinuing the use of French as an official language in that province.

Senator Platt, of New York, is credited with the intention of seriously advocating the plan of inducing Icelanders to emigrate to Alaska and become American citizens, and to that end it is said he will introduce a bill into congress to further the scheme.

There are nearly 70,000 lawyers in the United States, one for every 900 of the population. France has 8,400, one for 4,762 people, and Germany 7,000, one for 6,423 people. And yet a noted jurist says that in the United States justice walks on leaden sandals.

Talking to a newspaper interviewer in Paris a few days ago, Edison, the inventor, was asked: "What is electricity, after all?" And the practical scientist replied: "It is a mode of motion, a system of vibrations, a certain speed of vibration produces heat, a lower speed light, still lower something else." This answer from a man who has done more wonderful things with electricity than any other, is typical of the uncertainty of even the most practical workers in mysterious forces.

It is a curious fact that the fine old Seventy-ninth Regiment of Camerons Highlanders, which is stationed at Balmoral during Queen Victoria's residence in Scotland, does not contain a single man in the corps whose name is Cameron. On the other hand there are no less than three hundred and sixty Macdonalds in the ranks. In order to appreciate the ludicrous side of this state of affairs, it should be added that the Highland clan of Cameron and Macdonald were on terms of bitter enmity for several centuries.

The new fortifications of Paris have cost $100,000,000. This enormous expenditure is justified by the great importance of Paris in relation to the rest of the Republic. As London contains a larger proportion of the population of the Islands than Paris does of France, it might be supposed that its fortification would be of equal importance, and in fact, the matter has frequently been agitated. But the opinion has always prevailed that the money of the Britishers was spent best upon a fleet which would prevent an enemy getting near London.

The value of instantaneous photography was graphically illustrated at a coroner's inquest recently. A railroad accident occurred, in which several lives were lost. The responsibility of the engineer hinged upon the enquiry whether or not he had used efforts to slacken speed before the collision. Several witnesses swore that a photograph, taken immediately after the accident, revealed the fact that the lever was not reversed, and the position of the rod running from the lever to the shaft showed conclusively that steam was applied to move the engine forward when the crash came. The art of photography is growing in value. It is used by physicians, and long has assisted the authorities in the detection of crime.

In appearance the beer drinker may be the picture of health, but in reality he is most incapable of resisting disease. A slight injury, a severe cold, or a shock to the body or mind will provoke acute disease, ending fatally. Compared with other inebriates who use different kinds of alcohol, he is more incurable and more generally diseased. It is our observation that beer drinking in this country produces the very lowest kind of inebriety, closely allied to criminal insanity. The most dangerous class of ruffians in our large cities are beer drinkers. Intellectually a stupor amounting almost to paralysis arrests the reason, changing all the higher faculties into a mere animalism, sensual, selfish, sluggish, varied only with paroxysms of anger, senseless and brutal.

Ten thousand American railroad brakemen have memorialized the International State Commission to take such action as shall lead to the adoption of automatic coupiers and brakes on freight cars throughout the country, in order that "the terrible slaughter of brakemen on the railroads every year may be largely diminished." Of course, the only action the commission can take is to press the subject on the attention of congress, and that practically is what the brakemen ask. An American paper mentions a fact that gives emphasis to their petition, viz., that the use of the old link-and-pin coupler is responsible for the death in the United States every year of 450 brakemen and serious injuries to 4,000 others. A good many railroad accidents occur in Canada from the same cause. The subject is one that calls for legislative attention.

ISLAND OF MARTINIQUE.

A BEAUTIFUL LITTLE PLACE WHERE THERE IS NO POVERTY.

Whites and Blacks Live Together in Perfect Equality—Women and Donkeys the Common Carriers—The Birthplace of France's Empress, Josephine.

Martinique is a garden of romantic beauty, extending from the edge of the pretty harbor to the foot hills of the mountains, and looks like a fragment of France gone astray. Every building is of venerable stone, antique in structure, large and roomy and windowed by deep jalousies. The heavy tile roofs overhang the sills like the eyebrows of man, and are covered with silvery mosses and trailing vines.

The streets are nearly all paved with Belgian blocks, and sparkling water rushes down the middle of each in the gutter, toward which the pavement slopes.

LIFE ON THE ISLAND.

Everybody lives out of doors. The harbor is skirted by a wide boulevard, shaded by palm trees and furnished with iron seats, where the populace gather in the evening and chatter like magpies. During the day the women sit in the gardens, and at night sleep in hammocks under the verandas, except in the rainy season, when they keep their houses. There is no glass in the windows, and not a chimney in the place. All the cooking is done in charcoal stoves, or upon shelves of stone like a blacksmith's forge.

On an eminence overlooking the town stands a statue of the Blessed Virgin, like a protecting guardian, benignant and serene. There are some fine churches and one old cathedral that is worth a visit. The people are mostly Catholics, but there is a large colony of Jews engaged in banking and trade.

The town of Fort de France, which was known as Fort Royal during the time of the empire, is the seat of the government, where the lieutenant governor lives and commands a garrison of 300 or 400 colored soldiers. It is about twenty miles from St. Pierre and has 10,000 inhabitants, but the latter place is the commercial capital and the fashionable residence. The blacks and whites live together as brothers and sisters of the common family, often intermarrying. Many of the colored families are wealthy and aristocratic, and send their children abroad to be educated.

The upper class wear the latest French fashions and live with considerable comfort, but the colored women of the common class, as elsewhere in the tropics, are clad in a single garment of cotton, without any particular design of concealing or exposing their anatomy. They load themselves with a large amount of jewelry of peculiar designs, and on Sunday and feast days get themselves up in a most elaborate and outlandish manner, men and women both rivaling the plumage of the birds in the myriad colors they assume. There are no poor, no almshouses, no asylum for the indigent.

INTERESTING PARTICULARS.

The women of Martinique carry their babies in a peculiar manner by placing them astride of the left hip and strapping them there by broad slings of cloth. Martinique has a population of 154,000, of which 12,000 are white, 30,000 of mixed blood and the remainder colored.

The island is covered with fields of sugar cane, mostly cultivated by the women, while the men do the heavier labor in the sugar mills and in the harbor. There are no carriages or carts, but the women and donkeys are the common carriers.

There is a good opera house where performances are often given by local talent, and once in a while an opera or a play by a company from France. One of the most beautiful parks in the world is known as the Place Bertin, where there is a magnificent fountain of bronze, a graceful water nymph, fourteen feet high, bearing upon her head a basket, from the rim of which jets of water flow.

In August this fountain exhibits what to strangers is a most amazing phenomenon, spouting myriads of little fishes about as large as whitebait, with bodies as transparent as crystal. These are called titire, and come from the mountain streams with which the fountain is fed. In the month of August they start for the sea and are caught by the pipes that feed the fountain. The people, expecting them, come down with baskets, scoop them up, and, taking them home, fry them in oil, when the make most delicious morsels.

Martinique was the birthplace of the Empress Josephine, whose family still live near Fort de France, and their old home, a little one story house, is still to be seen. In the center of that little city a magnificent statue of white marble was erected to her memory by the late Emperor Napoleon III. Josephine was the daughter of Joseph Gaspard Tacher de la Pagerie, a lieutenant of artillery, and at 16 married Alexander de Beauharnais. He was only 19, and after a few years of married life in France the young couple were separated, and Josephine returned to her parents at Martinique. In 1794 Beauharnais died on the guillotine, and two years afterward Josephine was married to Napoleon. The empress was divorced, and died in 1809. The people of Martinique revere her like a saint.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

HIGH HATS IN THEATRES.

A Manager Attributes the Nuisance to Imperfections in the Playhouse.

Some people contend that the evil of high hats is aggravated considerably by the defects of our theatres, where sufficient slope is not given to the rows of seats, said a well known New York manager. In an ideal playhouse each spectator should be able to have an uninterrupted view of the stage. It was so in all the Roman amphitheatres, and also on the Greek stage, owing to the height of the platform where the performers moved and breadth of the space given to the chorus, who occupied the ground we cover with orchestra and stalls. Some of the newly erected theatres in this city are much better off in this respect than the older houses.

By way of contrast, look at the conveniences proposed in a new London playhouse. The visitor will find his allotted seat a center of convenience and comfort. On cold nights he is to have a hot water bottle to his feet. He will drop a penny into a slot on the left, and out will pop a bill of the play. By delivering a shilling into an aperture on his right he will obtain an opera glass. Books of the words can be secured by turning a handle behind him. There will be a place for his hat, another for his umbrella, a third for his top coat.

By pressing a button he can send a telegram; touching another he can call a cab. He will want nothing, in fact, but a telephone to his wife, so that between the acts he can ask her how the baby is getting on, and tell her not to sit up for him, as he is going to take supper with a friend. We are not quite sure of all these details, but such are the general impressions to be gathered from various paragraphs which have appeared respecting the new place of amusement erected by an eminent dramatist for a successful manager.

We live in hope that one-half of these agreeable attractions and sweet boons may be realized, for the play going public has been long taught by bitter experience not to expect too much. Even in some places where the electric light flourishes, the ventilation leaves much to be desired. In fact, we are not quite sure but that the gas "sunlight" of other theatres does not greatly tend to purify the air.

Sometimes, on winter nights, the theatres where concrete and iron are used instead of wood for partitions and seats, strike a chill to the flesh and blood of the auditors, who shiver and shake where they ought to applaud with warmth and enthusiasm. In time all these raw defects of imperfect reforms and all these lingering evils of the old regime will disappear, and we hail as a sign of the millennium the crowning mercy of a bonnet for ladies that can be folded up at theatres and will no longer vex the souls of men.—New York Star.

The Congressional Record.

The several thousand non-paying and half dozen paying subscribers to that especial journal, The Congressional Record, now miss its neatly cut and bound pages from their morning mail. It is noteworthy that up to its dying day The Congressional Record was full of speeches, some of which were "delivered" in senate or house two months before, and "held for revision." The veteran statesman nearly always lets his remarks go in the manner in which they are caught by the official stenographer; the amateur statesman not only wants to revise his speeches, but to read the proof before The Record is put to press. Senator Cullom often laughs at the rather ridiculous zeal displayed by himself when he was a member of the freshman class in the house. That was just twenty-four years ago. The then Representative Cullom had made a big speech on the polygamy question, and he determined to see that speech to press. At the old Globe office he was told the proof would be ready at 9 o'clock in the morning. At 2 o'clock he was told he would have to wait until 3, and at 3 his pulse quickened as the proof of his first congressional speech was placed in his hands. He spent a half hour over the proof and was unable to find any errors, typographical or others. The foreman was calling loudly for the proof so the forms could be put on the press, and the young congressman was determined to find an error of some sort to repay him for his all night vigil. Finally, in a moment of desperation, he struck out a whole sentence and crawled off to bed. Rising about noon he eagerly grasped The Globe, and with humiliation discovered that the only blemish on the composition of the speech was the unhappy omission of that sentence, whose absence left a number of other sentences well nigh meaningless. Since that night Mr. Cullom has not bothered the government printer to send him proofs of his speeches.—Walter Wellman.

Buried Alive.

An instance of buried alive is reported from Syracuse. For one such case which, through extraordinary circumstances, comes to light, it is only reasonable to assume that there are many known only to the all seeing eye and hidden from all human ken in the depths of an unviolated grave. Rare as are these evidences of a second death, a thousand times more terrible than the first, they are sufficient to engender the earnest hope that some means shall be reached whereby burial before death shall be impossible. Either some enactment whereby it would become a penal offense to inter a body that did not betray certain unmistakable evidence of absolute death, or some application of electrical appliance to the coffin and its contents.

There are no mechanical difficulties in the way to prevent electrical communication between every recently buried body and the office or residence of the cemetery official or watchman. Nor is it impossible to construct an electrical appliance of such delicacy that the slightest movement in the coffin would sound an alarm that would lead to averting the worst fate which can possibly befall man born of women, or woman or children beloved of man. Electricity has long been made to summon men to the distant room of a great hotel when a fire is in its first stages. Surely it is possible for the same subtle servitor to tell of the frantic movements of the wretched mortal entombed ere the vital spark of life has departed?—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Western Wools.

Western wools, according to Western Rural, grow in popularity. There is not such immense profit in wool growing in Washington and Montana territories as there once was, because the flocks require more care, but with that care comes a much better quality of wool and higher prices. Montana wool ranks very much higher than it used to, and Montana is a great sheep country. The increase of sheep in the territory has been steady right along and the number will continue to increase because the conditions of sheep raising and wool growing are so favorable. If wool growing could be conducted in the haphazard way in which it was once done in the territories more money could be made for a time, but in the long run better wool will bring the most profit. As land grows more valuable in the new sections, of course there is less profit in wool. At present in this country the greatest profits from wool growing are made in Texas and the territories; and though the profits will grow somewhat less, the territories will always be splendid sheep sections.

The Rod.

The advocates of whipping as a means of family discipline are accustomed to quote Solomon as saying: "Spare the rod and spoil the child." What Solomon said was: "He that spareth the rod hateth his son." But the word "rod" in that connection does not necessarily refer to corporal punishment. It simply means parental authority and guidance. The same Hebrew word is used in Psalm xxiii, where David says: "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. * * * His rod and his staff they comfort me." The rod was the symbol of authority and power, not a raw hide nor a hickory withe.—Indianapolis Journal.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

JOHN J. AUSTIN,
Real Estate Agent, Notary, Etc.
Has removed to No. 57 Government St., two doors north of Morison's drug store.

PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE

IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT CHANCELLOR Browning, Commissioner for the C. P. R., has this, the 26th day of July, 1889, issued a proclamation warning all persons from purchasing lots from Samuel Greer in Lot 526, Group One. Now, may it please Your Lordship, I have never offered for sale any lots in said Lot 526, for that would be deception on the public, as the highest legal authority in British Columbia pronounced the title to that lot straw—not one cent as consideration having been given. Now, if Your Lordship will adjust your wig and recover from your deep studies of Blackstone and the laws of estoppel, you will be able to see that the four Judges who threw your case out of Court last April were fully able to comprehend the difference between 526 and Pre-emption Record 1008, this being the Registered Number of my land on English Bay. Come down and see us. I have a few corner lots (with a smattering of coal) yet left. I mean to sell, and the public will persist in buying them, notwithstanding Your Lordship's decision. Things will move just the same at English Bay.
All parties are hereby warned that Angus and Smith have no title to Lot 526 till confirmed by the Legislature, and all sales will be void.
SAMUEL GREER.

THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS

Howe and Bell Want to Take Victoria in Their Circuit.

Mr. H. B. Bell, the active partner of J. P. Howe, arrived in town last night to make arrangements for the theatrical season in Victoria. Howe & Bell control the theatre in Portland, Tacoma and are building a new theatre in Seattle. Mr. Bell has just returned from New York, having contracted for such companies as the Emma Juch, English Grand Opera Co., the J. C. Duff Opera Co, and the Aronson's Casino Opera Co, James O'Neil in Monte Cristo, Frank Mayo, Maggie Mitchell, Hanlon's "Fantasma," Evangeline, Dion Boucicault's Plays, Around the World in 80 days, Herman the Great Prestidigitator, "Paul Kavor," "Lord Fauntleroy," Fred Ward, W. H. Crane of Robson and Crane, Nellie McHenry, Still Alarm, Natural Gas Co., which are the leading attractions of America. These companies carry from 30 to 112 people and many of them one to three car loads of scenery. If equitable arrangements can be made with the owners of the Victoria Theatre, we shall have the greatest theatrical season ever known here and not be left to be content with so many second class attractions as we have had. Howe & Bell are known to be theatrical managers of repute and responsibility, and such an arrangement as is proposed would, we feel certain, be mutually satisfactory to the public, the lessees and the owners of the theatre company.

Gratifying to All

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the Cal Fig Syrup Company.

Greer's Sale

The sale advertised by S. Greer will be held on Tuesday (not Saturday) the 24th inst. at the Oriental.

Who Will Explain?

A late issue of the Toronto Mail states that Mr. Wm. McGirr, Hon. E. Dewdney's private secretary, will succeed Dr. Powell as Indian agent in this city.

Bad Bricks.

The inspector and architect of the new addition to the city hall not being altogether satisfied with the quality of a lot of bricks supplied by the builder, have caused work to be suspended until a better sort are provided.

At Home.

Mrs. Nelson's "at home" at Government House this afternoon was well attended. Favored with a lovely afternoon, and excellent music discoursed by the splendid string band of H. M. S. Swiftsure, the affair was highly enjoyed by the guests.

Reported Robbery.

A lessee of one of Stronach's cabins, named Tom Rocket, reported to the police this morning that his cabin had been broken into and a quantity of bed clothing and other things stolen. Probably the thief will soon be apprehended, as there is a clue to the burglar.

We Did Think So.

Tacoma News: "Since the English government has shown a disposition to do nothing at all in relation to the seizure of fishing vessels in Behring Sea, our Canadian neighbors at Victoria do not appear to be half as belligerent as they were when they thought they had the whole British fleet to back them." True, that is where we were left.

Important to Business Men.

Mr. Chas. F. Roland, of 67 Fort street, has made arrangements for the publication of an advertising envelope, which gives an outline sketch of the city and its surroundings, in connection with the firm's name and address of the advertiser. Merchants, real estate brokers, hotel keepers and others will be called upon in a day or two by Mr. G. Reid Linklater, who will take orders. 2t

Agricultural Shows.

The following are the dates fixed for holding the several agricultural shows in the province during the present and next month:

Provincial, New Westminster	Oct. 2d to 4th
Delta, Ladners	Oct. 1
Surrey, Surrey Centre	Sept. 30
Chilliwhack, Centreville	Sept. 25 & 26
Ashcroft	Oct. 10 & 11
Cowichan	Sept. 26
Saanich	Oct. 10

Cross-Bred Game.

A curious hybrid bird, a cross between a grouse and a pheasant, was shot out near the Lake District the other day. The biped has neck ruff feathers precisely like a pheasant, while the tail is like a grouse. In size it is something larger than a cock grouse, and has the appearance of being a very eatable bird. The shooter disposed of his prize to Messrs. King & Dyer, Fort street, where a TIMES reporter saw it.

Splendid Cargo.

The bark Camelot, Capt. Murphy, discharged a fine cargo of Oriental wares a few days ago on Hall & Goepel's wharf. The cargo is spoken of as being turned out in a condition that all captains appreciate—there not being a single damp spot on any portion of it nor is anything injured. Eighty tons of the Camelot's cargo, comprising 1100 packages of fine Chinaware and teas, will be shipped to a Chinese firm in Port Townsend in the morning on the steamer North Pacific.

A Corporate Seal.

A new city seal has been made for the New Westminster corporation by W. H. Phipps, engraver, of this city. The escutcheon bears St. George's cross principal on a field quarterly; the quarters representing the commerce of British Columbia emblematically, a ship in full sail to the left, above; a plough, for agriculture, to the right, above; to the left, below, a Douglas fir, and to the right, below, British Columbia's pride, the Fraser river salmon. The crest is a locomotive and tender; the scroll upon which the escutcheon rests bears the noble device, "In God we trust."

Photographed at Night.

Mr. Wrigley, chief trade commissioner of the Hudson's Bay Company, had a novel experience during his last trip north, that but few people will have an opportunity to emulate, in the near future at least. He was photographed near the Arctic circle at midnight, at which time the sun was still high in the heavens. At Fort Norman, on the Mackenzie River, the sun, for a couple of weeks in the summer, just dips below the horizon and then rises again. It was in that latitude where the amateur artist caught Mr. Wrigley's shadow by the reflection of the midnight sun.

Knuckles vs. Ice Pick.

A young man who ought to know better, undertook to run a certain saloon last night, and while in the pursuit of his occupation placed his hands on the edge of the box to climb over and interview the barkeeper. That gentleman objected and by the judicious use of an ice pick on the excited one's knuckles, put an entirely different phase on the subsequent events. The owner of the damaged hand took sudden leave of the vicinity while his hitherto consummate self-esteem looked as small as a bob-tailed flush alongside an array of four healthy monarchs and an ace.

Reason of His Wrath.

Huge and jagged-edged junks of profanity floated thickly in the ambient air, and the attention of a wondering public was drawn thereby to an excited individual, who was madly endeavoring to rub the great toe of his left foot, while he hopped around on his right one, much after the manner of a turkey when it swallows a healthy hornet by mistake for a succulent grasshopper. Anxious Samaritans gathered round him and vainly strove to pour the balm of sympathy into his heaving breast, but his agony was too keen—he had struck his favorite corn against one of the many spikes which stick up in the sidewalk.

Beggars Description.

The New Westminster city council is in receipt of a communication from W. H. Mason, secretary of the British Columbia benevolent society, of Victoria, regarding a pauper named Heinrich Simonson who had been sent to Victoria and that the above society would not admit him, it being the duty of the city of New Westminster to care for this man. Mayor Townsend explained that much had already been done for Simonson, who was a chronic nuisance, not insane enough for the asylum and just sick enough to get into the hospital, where he was a constant source of annoyance. Simonson is either a Hungarian, Bavarian or Belgian. Communication received and on motion the clerk was instructed to find out his nationality and communicate with the consul of that country.

Y. M. C. A.

On Tuesday and Wednesday next the general secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., will hold a conference at the rooms here. The following gentlemen are expected to reach here Monday evening: Mr. E. C. Frost, chairman of the executive committee; Mr. C. L. Fay, treasurer; Mr. N. H. Jacks, travelling secretary, and the following general secretaries: G. A. Charnock, Vancouver; C. A. Davie, New Westminster; Geo. Carter, Seattle; M. M. Meyers, Tacoma; C. W. Beers, Portland; Fillmore Tanner, Spokane Falls; D. S. Puterbaugh, Astoria; E. C. Soper, East Portland; E. F. McCaslin, assistant secretary and gymnasium instructor, Portland.

On their arrival they will be tendered a reception; Tuesday the conference will commence with services continuing until Wednesday evening.

FROM THE NORTH.

The Sardonyx Arrives With a Large Cargo of Salmon.

The C. P. N. Co.'s steamer Sardonyx, Capt. Meyer, arrived from Naas and way ports early this morning. The round trip was made in eleven days, the weather the whole time being both chilly and damp. The steamer brought down ninety-seven passengers and 8994 cases and 264 barrels salmon. The salmon was apportioned as follows: British American Packing Company, 2959 cases; McLellan, Naas river, 2800 cases; Findlay, Durham & Brodie, 2235 cases; Windsor Cannery Company, Skeena river, 1000 cases; 264 barrels salt salmon from Naas river.

All the canneries had suspended operations for the season and all satisfied with the year's work.

At the Skeena and Naas rivers the first snow of the season was seen on the hills, which is unusually early.

A FATAL FALL

From the Maintopmast Crosstrees of H. M. S. Swiftsure.

At 11 o'clock this morning a bluejacket on the flagship Swiftsure, lying at Esquimalt harbor, named Carland, while working aloft, fell from the maintopmast crosstrees to the deck and was instantly killed. The unfortunate man in his descent spread out his arms as if to grasp something, but alas, there was nothing tangible in the way of his fall. He was at once placed in a boat and rowed ashore, and on a stretcher conveyed to the naval hospital.

An eye-witness from the Esquimalt shore says he felt a sickening sensation as he saw the poor fellow sail through the air, swaying and turning, with his arms stretched out fruitlessly, essaying to catch hold of anything as a last hope.

The distance from where he fell to the deck is 110 feet. He struck on his head, it being crushed in a fearful manner. While in the air the only exclamation heard was "halloo."

The deceased was eighteen years of age and a native of England. He was very popular with his shipmates, and his violent and sudden death has cast a gloom over the whole ship's company. His funeral will probably take place to-morrow.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Something About a Baseball Game—The Kamloops Tournament.

Faulkner and Connors will wrestle this evening at the Club Theatre for $250 and Clem Austin and Prof. Foster will spar for $100. Both events are of more than ordinary interest to lovers of sports.

WE ARE THE PEOPLE.

In connection it is well to state that the battery of the Amities of Victoria was imported recently to enter the Kamloops tournament, the fact being evident that the Amities would stand no possible chance in a contest with the Kamloops or Townsends, unless strengthened with imported professional players. This master stroke was made by the Amities. The local battery was superceded by the imported battery, and the Amities enter the contest, not as the TIMES would have it, with British players, but with imported American base ballists. So the victory achieved by the club from Victoria yesterday was truly an American success. Why, even the Kamloops club is composed of Americans. This understood, the effort to claim for the British superior skill as players over the Americans, is ridiculous in the extreme.—Port Townsend Call.

Tut! tut!! We own all your breweries, anyhow!

WAS THERE JOCKEYING AT KAMLOOPS?

The Times correspondent writing under the date of September 11th says, of Wednesday's game between the Amities and Kamloops, the games arranged for this afternoon petered out. It happened in this way and it looks very fishy: The Port Townsends who were to play Kamloops wished to play the Seattle battery who received $50 from the tournament committee to come here and play with Vancouver. The Kamloops club objected to this arrangement and requested the umpire to give the game to Kamloops, which he did, thus giving Kamloops first place in the open competition, saving them a hard game, the chances of getting players injured and fatigued apart from the risk of losing the game. Kamloops has played but one game so far, the interesting exhibition with Vancouver being nothing short of a farce, which neither worried the players nor called on their vitality. They are therefore in much better condition than the Amities, who have worked as hard as the Kamloops officials could wish. In fact it is beginning to tell on the boys. In sliding into third base yesterday Duck strained his knee and was unable to take part in to-day's game. Both Parritts complain of sore arms, so you see how we enter for the B. C. championship, as well as being handicapped by every arrangement which can suggest itself to our opponents. In conclusion, if the fleetwinged dispatch tells you of our defeat on Thursday you will be in a position to at least partly account for it. Following is the complete score in to-day's game, which Mr. Knox umpired well:

HOSE-TEAM ARRIVES.

The Nanaimo hose team arrived down to-day, and a fine looking body of young men they are. At the depot they were received by Chief Engineer Deasy and a number of his men and escorted up town. They will leave in the morning for Tacoma, to take part in the tournament, and we wish them an equal success with the Victoria team, which is about all that our loyalty to Victoria will permit us to do.

THE ROVERS.

We are sorry to hear that the Rovers have come to an untimely end. We anticipated some interesting contests between them and the new club, now starting. We understand the best players from the Rovers will join the Black Diamond team.—Free Press.
